Treat your enemies with respect

During my political work I met a lot of various groups who loved sitting on sofas and chatting into the wee hours about how bad Jews are. After a while I swore that I would never sit on those sofas again. I found these discussions most counter-productive and a terrible waste of time. Those supposedly nationalistic organizations are in fact Jews sympathizers are eager to find out all about Jews, yet have a very limited knowledge of the much greater problems in Poland.

First of all, much like Poles, not all Jews are bad and not all are our enemies. Many of you might be surprised to learn that many Polish Jews actually voted for me in the past to be their representative and happily gave support signatures to register my Party and myself for the elections.

Having said that, I have always had the satisfaction of knowing that I helped to overthrow treacherous government of Tadeusz Mazowiecki in the presidential election in 1990. As his government was mostly comprised of Polish Jews, the global press automatically declared me to be anti-Semitic and attempted character assassination with deceitful lies.

Many think that I hold a grudge against my political enemies for their underhanded actions against me. I can assure you that it is not the case. I have always expected the worst of my enemies and they have always still managed to surprise me with their filthy lies and conceit. I have an obligation to remind our young Poles that our enemies hunted us to kill in the past and tortured us much more than the Iraqi freedom fighters are tortured today. Having said, that I realize that our enemies in Poland are more sophisticated and use a more civilized means to get at us Poles. They use tools such as character assassination by the press and tax investigations to ruin one's business and to ruin one's professional career. For our enemies are capable of the most despicable acts and the only limit is their imagination.

As much as I respect and even admire our enemies, I perceive the real problem with my countrymen. Having a strong, intelligent and deceitful enemy among us requires even more strength, intelligence and conceit. There is a saying that the value of the man is measured by the quality of his enemies. You have to admit that our enemies in Poland are to be respected. Unless we respect them and try to best them, we Poles will never win. We will always be slaves. Should we rise up with force now, our enemies will use military and police force with rubber bullets and the same approach that was perfected against civilians in Palestine. We have seen the use of rubber and even real bullets in Poland already in recent months, as our enemies are afraid of us and trigger-happy. For they have the power but we outnumber them.

The problem that Poles are facing today is that we are individualistic Europeans with Roman culture. Each of us is a loner. When we have to face members of the "Round Table" talks (1989) with Judaic roots, we are practically defenseless against their organized group approach. We are opposing a ruthless political culture, with most violent roots, that has survived in foreign countries for thousands of years. Higher order patriotic national organizations are needed to combat their political organizations in order to win. Refined strategy and much boldness are needed to counterattack their “chutzpah”. To build such organizations much money is needed, along with time and hard work.

Unfortunately, individualistic Poles, unlike Jews, are not capable of raising funds for their own organizations. They are always suspicious if the funds are going to be well spent and bickering about politics to no end. This is why the Jews and most of the Western world see us Poles as weaklings, not capable of supporting our own leaders and with no organizational strength. They despise us. Some even call us a culture of slaves.

There is no pride these days in being a Pole. We can only recall the past heroic but doubtful acts of our ancestors such as the battle of Vienna, the war with Bolsheviks or the Warsaw uprising, but we have no such victories in our present time. Our Motherland has become the poorest country of United Europe. We suffer from high unemployment and our population is shrinking. The future victories and successes will not happen by a chance – they must be planned. Otherwise we will always be enslaved by our enemies and act be waved like a banner at the whim of the wind.

This failure mentality is most evident in the Polish discussion forums on the Internet. There are no constructive discussions about the future of Poland, only low class bickering about articles in the daily press. As a nation we have lost the ability to plan and talk about our future. We are only pretending to be citizens of this world.

Someone said that the people who rule us are the same as you and I. This is not true. The Polish people are not conceited liars and thieves, and what separates us from them is our truth and morality. Once a liar and a thief, always a liar and a thief certainly applies to the post-communist politicians in Poland today.

Even though the chance of Poles to self-organizing and facing their enemies is slim, I have never lost hope that it will happen one day. For I have always wanted my people to be free of oppression, deceit, unfair taxation and corrupt politicians. I have always wanted my countrymen to be free of censorship and being manipulated in staged up elections. I have always wanted my countrymen to be protected from abuse of any kind so they are free to work and prosper. These higher order values are much more important than any minute economic plan, which is always incidental anyway and based on the geo-political situation in any given year.

Go now and look in the mirror you individualistic Pole. See if there are any Poles around you and behind your. If you see none, you are alone and you have no group plan for the future. You fight for nothing and belong nowhere and most likely you are no longer a true Pole. The decision to change this to be a valiant, victorious Pole is yours to make.
